History

Rivermead was established in 1910 and opened in 1911 as a nine-hole course, under the direction of architect Charles Murray.

The course was expanded to 18 holes in 1915 following the purchase of additional land in 1912. George Cumming, a well-known name in course design, directed the expansion.

Throughout our first 100 years, Rivermead Golf Club has hosted many national, provincial and local championship events, including:

- 1920 Canadian Open, won by James Douglas Edgar
- 1925 Ladies' Canadian Amateur Championship, won by Ada MacKenzie

- 1932 CPGA Championship, won by Lex Robson
- 1959 CPGA Championship, won by Stan Leonard
- 1963 Canadian Junior Girls Championship, won by Cathy Galusha
- 2005 CN Canadian Women`s Tour Event, won by Linda Shephard
- 2010 CN Canadian Women's Tour Event, won by Candace Schepperle

In 1948, Rivermead, along with the Ottawa Hunt and Royal Ottawa golf clubs, formed the Ottawa District Golf Association, which became the Ottawa Valley Golf Association in 1981. With Ottawa Hunt and Royal Ottawa golf clubs, Rivermead has hosted the prestigious Alexander of Tunis tournament every three years since its inception in 1950.

Rivermead Cup

The Club donated the Rivermead Cup, emblematic of the Open Championship of Canada, at the 1920 Open, which was hosted by Rivermead. The Rivermead Cup continued to be awarded to the winner of the Canadian Open until 1935.

In 1936, when Seagram`s took over sponsorship of the Open (and put up the Seagram Gold Cup), the Rivermead Cup was awarded to the Low Canadian Professional in the Open Championship of Canada until 1961.

In 2007, the Royal Canadian Golf Association resumed the presentation of the Rivermead Cup to the Low Canadian in the RBC Canadian Open. Recent winners include Mike Weir, Graham DeLaet, David Hearn, Stephen Ames, Adam Hadwin and Chris Baryla.

Golf Canada announced in 2010 that the low Canadian winners between 1962 and 2006 would have their names added to the Rivermead Cup.

In 2010, Rivermead Club President, Bruno Bonneville, presented the Rivermead Cup to Adam Hadwin during the award ceremony at St. George`s Golf and Country Club in Toronto. In the fall of 2010, Adam was a guest of the Club at our Centennial Bridge opening ceremony and was awarded an Honorary Lifetime Membership at Rivermead in celebration of his winning of the Rivermead Cup in our Centennial year.
